Excerpts from Good Books

Leading with Love by Alexander Strauch. Lewis and Roth Publishers, Copyright 2006

"Without love, knowing it all helps no one."

"Knowledge without love inflates the ego and deceives the mind."

Without love, our most extraordinary gifts and highest achievements are ultimately fruitless to the church and before God."

"Kindness is love in work clothes."

"Love is the indispensable motivating force for all Christian service."

"We need to protect the church against the tendency to trust in external forms, religious rituals, traditions and rules, while we neglect the vital elements of true love for Christ and one another."

"Love generates the faith, hope and endurance to persevere through a lifetime of problems."

"The church should be a place where people express love and appreciation, thank one another, and encourage one another."

"The atmosphere of love does not come by teaching alone."

"Love can be both tender and stern."

"One of the greatest blessings a church can experience is for its leaders and teachers to love the Lord and delight in obeying his Word."
