Gleanings from our Seasons & Excerpts from Good Books

Under God by Toby Mac and Michael Tait

Government by the Gospel
Plymouth, Massachusetts
Spring 1623

"Even though it was still spring, Susanna was concerned that the coming winter of 1624 would be a repeat of that time of hunger. She had noticed that the new settlers, sent as replacements by the trading company, were not hard workers like the Pilgrims."

"Meanwhile, as was his custom every morning, young William Bradford, Plymouth's new governor, was reading from the Bible. He too, was worried about the colony.... Fortunately, Governor Bradford was convinced that the answer to every problem facing mankind was to be found in the Word of God. 'The Bible is a book about government,' he would often say. 'When we don't know what to do, we should look in its pages'."

"Walking outside, he shouted for the Pilgrims and the newcomers to meet him at the meeting hall. Once the crowd assembled, Governor Bradford read his verse: 'If any man would not work, neither should he eat' - Then he continued, 'This is a command in the Word of God. From now on, this will be the rule of our community'."

"Bradford's new policy was a success. He later wrote in his journal, 'Any general want or suffering hath not been among them since this day'."

"The colonists worked even harder, the colony prospered, and government according to the Scriptures was established as a principle."
